Trustees to consider bond change

By Ed Foley
Staff Writer

The refinancing of the University's revenue bond system, a move officials say could result in savings to the SIU system of several million dollars, will be considered by the Board of Trustees at a special meeting Wednesday afternoon in Bethalto.

Don Wilson, systems financial officer in the Chancellor's Office, said Friday that the plan to refinance about $51.7 million in revenue bonds held by SIU could result in savings "anywhere from zero to $10 million."

"Hopefully, we'll be able to save some money for everyone concerned here," he said. "Our Board of Trustees is one of the leaders in keeping down tuition and fees."

The plan involves the sale of the current bonds, with the proceeds going to the purchase of government securities. The securities and their higher interest rates are expected to pay the debt on the bonds and result in savings.

An application to the U.S. Department of Education to prepay at a discount a portion of the revenue bonds held by SIU was approved by the Board of Trustees in July. The plan was not allowed by DOE, however, because it involved using tax-free revenue for prepayment.

Also at the July board meeting, the firm of Becker Paribas was approved to serve as managing underwriter for the bond proposal, and Chapman and Cutler was approved to serve as bond counsel. Fees are to be contingent upon the actual sale of the bonds.

The board will meet at 5 p.m. in the conference room of Air Business Inc., at the St. Louis Regional Airport in Bethalto.

Simon opens campaign office

By Ed Foley
Staff Writer

Calling his a campaign "of the people," U.S. Senate candidate Paul Simon officially opened his Jackson County campaign headquarters Saturday afternoon with an enthusiastic group of about 100 supporters.

"We'll do it with the help of the small contributors," he said. "It's the $10 donations and the $25 donations that are going to be the important thing in this campaign."

A $10 contribution to Simon's campaign earns supporters membership in the Bow Tie Club, the statewide fund-raising vehicle through which Simon hopes to unseat Republican Sen. Charles Percy.

Simon accused Percy of being sponsored "almost exclusively" by large corporate donations, and contrasted this with his own campaign, which he said was a campaign "kept going by grassroots support."

Simon also charged Percy with ignoring downstate voters.

"My opponent is largely out of touch with the people," he said. The five-term congressman from Makanda said that the average Illinois voter "can identify with Paul Simon more than someone from Kenilworth," a wealthy suburb of Chicago.

Simon said, however, that he will not be able to spend a great deal of time in Southern Illinois.

"One of the facts of life is that 80 percent of the electorate can be reached through Chicago television," he said.

A press statement issued by the Simon campaign said that one of the goals of the campaign is to have 5,000 new volunteers and contributors, including 200 Bow Tie Club chapters, by mid-September.

"We've only got 73 days left, and that's not that much time," he said.

Responding to questions about recent polls that show Percy in the lead for the Senate seat, Simon was optimistic. He said that a recent newspaper headline that read "Percy is Slipping" is significant.

"I think that tells the story," he said.

Ferraro says failure is impossible

FORT LEE, N.J. (AP) — Geraldine Ferraro celebrated her birthday Sunday by urging women to use their right to vote — written into the Constitution exactly 64 years ago — to make her the nation's first female vice president.

"Sixty-four years ago today, women couldn't hold public office," she said. "In 1984, we'll elect one of our own to the nation's second highest office."

At the celebration of "Women's Equality Day," Ms. Ferraro quoted Susan B. Anthony, one of the most prominent early feminists.

"In 1906, only a month before her death at age 85, after a lifetime devoted to women's rights, Susan B. Anthony addressed a women's suffrage convention in Baltimore. 'Failure,' she said, 'is impossible.' She's right — failure is impossible," Ms. Ferraro said.

'Failure is impossible. In 1984, women will elect the next president.'

—Geraldine Ferraro

Taking advantage of the fortuitous coincidence of her 49th birthday and the anniversary of the ratification of the 19th Amendment, the Democratic vice presidential candidate came to this New Jersey city to talk about women's rights and the need to defeat President Reagan in November.

"We have been given a chance to change history ... Sixty-four years ago today, we didn't have the right to vote and we got it. In 1984, women will elect the next president of the United States," Ms. Ferraro told a crowd of several hundred at a recreation center here.

Various legal and nonlegal barriers stood between women and elective office early in this century, although most of them were state laws, not federal prohibitions.

Since women's right to vote was guaranteed in 1920, participation of women in elections has steadily increased. Women are the majority of registered voters and probably will be a majority of voters on Nov. 6.

"If any one still doesn't take women seriously, let them wait until Nov. 6 and we'll show them how serious you and I are," the New York representative said.

definition of the term.

"When we ratify the Equal Rights Amendment that will be a patriotic act," she said.

The Democratic Party platform supports the ERA; the Republican Party's does not.

Ms. Ferraro, born Aug. 26, 1935, was celebrating her birthday privately Sunday night with a family dinner after an afternoon meeting with a group of campaign contributors.

Meanwhile, appearing on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation," Robert Beckel, manager of the Mondale-Ferraro campaign, said that before Mondale selected Ms. Ferraro the campaign knew details of her finances and those of her husband, John Zaccaro.

"As far as I know, he did not deliberately keep anything from the campaign," Beckel said when asked about Zaccaro's borrowing money from an elderly woman's estate for which he was a court-appointed conservator.

Appearing on the same program, Edward Rollins, director of the Reagan-Bush campaign, declined to attack Ms. Ferraro directly but said the issue of the Ferraro-Zaccaro finances is tied to Mondale's leadership abilities.

Library storage facility tied in red tape

By Karen Wiltberger
Staff Writer

Plans for a new library storage facility are expected to get "to the hands" of President Albert Somit by October, said John C. Guyon, vice president for academic affairs.

Construction won't begin until late spring, Guyon said, because "a lot of red tape" must be dealt with first.

There is no deadline for the plans, he said. Committees were chosen last week to decide on building specifications and on a location.

Kenneth G. Peterson, dean of library affairs, reactivated a specifications committee, which he headed several years ago when the University first discussed a storage facility.

Peterson said he will make recommendations for "library things," including facility operation, a staff program and shelving arrangements for about a half of a million excess books and materials at Morris Library.

Clarence C. Dougherty, vice president for campus services, will recommend a site for the building.

A favored site is on McCafferty Road, south of the University Press building, but a space south of Morris Library facility operation, a staff program and shelving arrangements for about a half of a million excess books and materials at Morris Library.

If the recommendations are approved by Somit, the Board of Trustees will vote on the plans and on a request for the release of the reappropriated funds to build the $1.6 million project.

No party nod for Johns' widow; she vows to stay in Senate race

By Jane Grandolfo
Staff Writer

Eve Johns, wife of the late Sen. Gene Johns, called the procedure used to select a nominee to fill Johns' vacant Senate seat "unfair" and said it was a case of "11 people making the decision for over 188,000 people."

Mrs. Johns said she was bitter about the nomination of Glenn Poshard to fill the 59th District seat and pledged to continue her battle to replace her husband in the Senate.

She said it was unfortunate that Poshard's nomination will splinter Democratic unity in the district, because "the people will pay" for that division.

She said she plans to run independently and already has the necessary petitions circulating to join the ballot. Mrs. Johns will need to gather 1,472 signatures by the Sept. 5 filing

Poshard, 38, of Carterville, was unanimously nominated last week by Democratic party chairmen to fill the state Senate seat left vacant by Johns' death.

An opponent of Johns' in the 1982 Democratic primary, Poshard said he was pleased by the overwhelming endorsement he received from the 59th District party chairmen.

Poshard, currently vice chairman of the Williamson County Democratic organization and director of the Southern Illinois Educational Service Center, said he is forming an organizational staff and campaign plans are in the works for the fall election.

Poshard also said Sen. Johns would have supported his nomination.

"Gene and I were friends when I ran against him in the primary in 1982. I had a great deal of respect for him, and he for me," Poshard said. "I know he would approve of who I am and that I can be a good senator."

Republicans haven't officially nominated their candidate for the 59th District senate, but Rep. Robert Winchester, of Rosiclare, is being touted as the favorite.

Franklin County chairman Ronald Summers and Jim Sanders of Williamson County have also been hinted as strong possibilities.

John McNeill, 59th District Democratic chairman, said that if Winchester is nominated he would have difficulty carrying the predominantly Democratic district.

"He cannot win in this district. He's already got problems in his own," McNeill said, referring to the 118th Congressional District that Winchester narrowly won over his Democratic opponent.

Government's biggest sting ending

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal agents using a credit-card company as a front, are winding up an undercover operation that may lead to charges linking organized crime figures, businessmen and law enforcement officials to Chicago's $75 million-a-year illegal prostitution business, a local official confirmed Sunday.

In what has been described as the government's biggest sting operation ever, the Washington Post said in Sunday editions that for four years, FBI agents have been operating the credit-card company to get information on sex clubs, massage parlors, go-go bars, "modeling studios" and their customers.

"We've worked closely with the Justice Department in a number of raids," Cook County State's Attorney Richard M. Daley told an impromptu news conference Sunday. He said about 50 people were under investigation in the case.

Evidence in the sting, code-named "Operation Safe Bet," was said to include 30,000 payment vouchers, secret tape recordings and photographs of customers.

FACILITY: Library tied up

Continued from Page 1 requested a funding release in 1982 to buy the Bracy building, it must request another release from the Capital Development Board because the money will be used to build, instead of buy, a storage facility.

The University decided to build last month when Gov. James Thompson lifted a freeze on construction.

Vice Chancellor James Brown said he expects the board to vote on the construction project at its Sept. 13 meeting, and that the storage facility will be a "high priority" on the board's list.

A request for funding release will be made as soon as the facility plans are definite, Brown said.

Before the money will be released, the CDB must approve the plans, because it assumes control of a project once it is accepted for possible funding.

News Roundup

Explosion rocks plastics factory

WAUKEGAN (AP) — An explosion heavily damaged a northern Illinois plastics plant Sunday, sending thick black smoke and fumes billowing above the city and rocking homes as far as three miles from the plant, authorities said.

There were no serious injuries in the 3:30 p.m. blast at the American Polystyrene Corp., a plastics factory near Lake Michigan, said Lt. James McGrain of the Waukegan Fire Department.

Fearing the smoke and fumes might be toxic, authorities warned all Waukegan residents Sunday afternoon to stay indoors and keep their windows closed, McGrain said.

Street guitarist shot while playing

CHICAGO (AP) — An occasional guitarist and locally known street figure was shot four times late Saturday while strumming his guitar in a vacant lot, police said Sunday.

Curtis Lattrice, 48, was "just hanging out in that lot with the guitar" on the South Side when a man drove up, got out of his car and started shooting, Detective Patrick Garrity said.

Police have charged James Simms, 33, of Chicago, with attempted murder, Garrity said.

Lattrice, who was struck four times in the shoulder and torso, was in fair condition at Cook County Hospital Sunday afternoon, according to hospital spokesmen.

Study: Sun movements cause flu

LONDON (AP) — A new study suggests that influenza epidemics are triggered by global movements of the sun and its rays — not by the random arrival of alien viruses.

The study by Dr. Robert Hope-Simpson of Britain's Epidemiological Research Unit, published in the latest Journal of Hygiene, researched all major flu outbreaks around the world between 1964 and 1975.

Hope-Simpson said current medical opinion that the flu virus travels via endless — and sometimes international — chains of direct transmission of the disease from individual sufferers, fails to explain why epidemics tend to be seasonal.

He identified a chronological pattern, with the so-called flu seasons occurring around the Earth's surface in a curve roughly six months behind the "midsummer" curve, when the sun is directly overhead.

Council may form citizen-police liaison

By Bob Tita
Staff Writer

Less than a week after Carbondale police were cleared of harassment charges, the City Council is expected Monday to start work toward improved relationships between police and some members of the community.

Harvey Welch Jr., chairman of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners, has asked the City Council to form a community advisory committee and to interact with the State Association of Police and Fire Commissioners.

Welch, in a letter to Bill Dixon, city manager, said problems still exist and could be addressed by the formation of a broadly-based community advisory committee.

On Aug. 21 the Illinois Department of Criminal Investigations dismissed the last eight allegations of police harassment against black residents. In all, 24 charges of harassment and unwarranted aggression were filed.

Council support also is sought for interaction between the Carbondale Board of Fire and Police Commissioners and the State Association of Police and Fire Commissioners, in an effort to find additional ways to improve understanding.

The City Council will also take formal action on an ordinance raising property taxes 10 to 13 percent. The increase, if approved, will appear on 1985 tax bills.

A revised plan for a drive-up window for the proposed Captian D's restaurant on Walnut Street and Logan Avenue will be considered. Council members last week expressed concern about vehicle access to Logan Avenue.

The city will be asked to co-sponsor a community conference, organized by Carbondale Community Education Inc. It would define some of the problems confronting the greater Carbondale area and recommend goals for governmental, educational and business agencies, according to Richard M. Thomas, professor of community development at SIU-C.

A status report on the comprehensive dental program at the Eurma C. Hayes Center will be presented. The dental service has been closed since the resignation of David Christensen on July 13.

Ship hauling radioactive gas sinks near Belgium

PARIS (AP) — A French cargo ship was carrying 450 tons of radioactive material when it collided with a ferry off the Belgian coast and sank, the owners said Sunday.

In a communique issued by its Paris headquarters, the Compagnie Generale Maritime identified the material as uranium hexafluoride, a radioactive gas. It said the 15 special containers were intact at the time the Mont Louis sank Saturday, and were built to last underwater for up to a year without leaking.

Company officials said the cargo ship was hit in the stern and the crew was able to determine that the containers, stowed in the forward cargo hold, were undamaged before they abandoned ship.

The communique said that even if a leak were to develop, the radioactive material would quickly be diluted by sea water and the increase in radioactivity would be "negligible with no consequence for man or the environment."

French maritime police in Cherbourg, on the English Channel, said their initial investigation had determined that none of the radioactive material had leaked.

In the port city of Le Havre, an official of the company, who spoke on condition he not be named, said the ship owners planned Monday to begin investigating the possibility of recovering the cargo and eventually refloating the ship.

The Mont Louis sank about 12 miles off of Ostend, Belgium, after colliding with the 15,000-ton ferry Olau Britannia, carrying 935 people and a crew of 80 from Flushing, the Netherlands, to Sheerness, England. No one was injured in the accident.

Company officials said the radioactive material came from a variety of sources and was put aboard the ship at Le Havre. The boat was taking the cargo to a reprocessing plant at Riga in the Soviet Union.

French officials described the radioactive uranium gas as a highly toxic, very corrosive material used in the production of enriched uranium. They said the gas is produced after uranium salt is heated slightly. The gas is then used to separate uranium isotopes and produce uranium-235 and uranium-238.

U-235 is the basis for enriched uranium and is used in nuclear weapons and for nuclear energy.

Earlier Sunday a maritime union official said the ship had been carrying "heavy containers" of nuclear waste and a Belgian maritime radio service broadcast three warnings to all ships off Belgium not to pick up any floating cargo from the 4,000-ton Mont Louis.

The Mont Louis was reported lying in about 40 feet of water at low tide. The Olau Britannia completed its trip, arriving in England late Saturday night.

Ready to hit the trail

THE CONVENTIONS are over, the campaign strategies are polished. Now it's time to take the campaign to the people.

President Reagan set the tone of his campaign in his acceptance speech Thursday at the Republican convention. Reagan will campaign heavily on his first-term successes and tout even more the assertion that America is stronger than ever after four years of Jimmy Carter's weak leadership.

Carter's name was mentioned by convention speakers nearly as often as that of Walter Mondale. The intent was obvious: to plant in the minds of voters the notion that Reagan has lifted America out of the depths to which it sank under Carter's leadership, and that Carter had plenty of help from his vice president, Walter Mondale.

THE ANTI-MONDALE rhetoric in speeches preceeding Reagan's at the convention were just warm-ups for Reagan's blasting of Mondale. The addresses were relentlessly critical of Mondale and praising of Reagan.

They were continually upbeat, extolling the successes of Reagan's first term, such as the economic recovery, while downplaying the embarrassments, such as the deaths of U.S. servicemen in Beirut and the departures of James Watt and Anne Burford.

The upcoming campaign promises to be full of mudslinging and name-calling. Both Mondale and Reagan prefer to spend more time telling why the other candidate will be a bad president than they do selling themselves.

BUT PERHAPS the most interesting and insightful side of the smooth-as-silk convention was the adoption of the Republican Party platform.

The platform is a model of conservatism, which indicates that the right wing has maintained control of the ideology of the party. Attempts by party moderates Sen. Lowell Weicker of Connecticut and Rep. James Leach of Iowa to draft a moderate platform must wait for another time.

The adopted platform opposes abortion under nearly all circumstances and virtually ignores the Equal Rights Amendment.

The platform completely rejects tax increases, yet proposes a constitutional amendment to balance the federal budget. A return to the gold standard is advocated, curiously reversing the action of Richard Nixon to abolish the Bretton-Woods system.

VOLUNTARY school prayer is endorsed in the platform, and the influential presence of the Rev. Jerry Falwell at the convention shows the GOP's kinship with old-time religious values.

Republican candidates won't be required to adhere to the platform in the fall campaign, and most are grateful. Requiring candidates to endorse the platform on the campaign trail could well have been a kiss of death.

But the conservative platform indicates the underlying philosophy of the leaders of the Republican Party, a philosophy that would surely guide Reagan through a second term in the White House.

Students qualified to grade exams

In a recent issue of the Daily Egyptian, there was a report on the concern that some civil service employees have about using student workers to grade employment tests. I want to emphasize that the student workers are trained and are supervised. Furthermore, they do not grade subjective essays which require experienced judgment. Our student worker graders are intelligent and have proven themselves to be capable of handling the responsibilities assigned to them.

In some respects, questioning the use of student workers in this assignment is a challenge to the University's total student work program. Other universities do not use student workers to the same extent that we do here at SIUC. The reason is that the student work program is a part of the educational fabric of this University. Students are provided growth opportunities and learn from their work experiences. Through the student work program SIUC has attempted to make a university education accessible to many students who might otherwise not have been able to afford going to college.

Employment Services uses student workers because we believe in the student work program philosophy. Furthermore, we believe in the capabilities of our students and accept a part of the responsibility of providing for their professional growth.

The bottom line to the concerns expressed lies in the answer to the question, "Are the student workers doing a good job of grading the examinations?" The answer is: Definitely yes they are! —

Charles H. Hindersman, acting director, Personnel Services.

God created women as man's helper

Doctrinal corrections are needed in the recent letter, "Bible says men and women are equal." The writer falsely suggests the Old Testament's authority has ended since Jesus came.

While it's true that the New Testament mentions the O.T. as only a foreshadow of the Messiah, it never mentions that Jesus ends its authority.

The writer's error lies in his confusing the law's end in function as an end to its authority.

So what does the Bible say about women? Of the original two humans, the one that gave birth was the same that was created as man's "helper." This carries into the N.T., where Paul reaffirms that man "is the image and glory of God; but woman is the glory of man."

Only in mutual faith in Jesus do woman share equally with men.

So important is this understanding, for it well documents our current social conditions. Whenever women (and men) fail to live within their created boundaries, people get hurt. Just look at the issues: Gay rights, abortion, pollution, families, etc. ... Then tell me they don't need Jesus. — Greg Lamanna, Junior, Radio-TV

Copper towns are becoming ghost towns

EXCEPT PERHAPS for owns on the north slope of Alaska, few places in America are more geographically remote than this small working-class community on the northwest rim of Michigan's upper coastline. With Lake Superior to the north and south, White Pine is part of the Keweenaw Peninsula that itself is a rugged part of the state's Upper Peninsula.

The isolation of being nearly unfindable is nothing compared with what is happening to White Pine and other communities that once boomed when the world's purest copper was mined in this area. They are becoming economic ghost towns. The region's dominant employer — the Copper Range mine with miles of underground shafts and new $80 million refinery that sits like a whemoh over the forestline — employed more than 3,200 workers in 1976. The mine closed a year ago.

LAST JANUARY, a New York financial analyst wrote that the "U.S. copper industry is desperate" and that the "prospect of massive closures in the U.S. copper industry is

Colman McCarthy
Washington Post
Writers Group

real and distinct."

In White Pine, it is Tony Domitrovich, among many others, who is seeing the real and distinct — and the frightening — in action. He is a real-estate broker. Among his new listings is a four-bedroom, two-story, full basement house. The owners are asking $8,900. In 1976, the house would have sold for $35,000. A few streets away is a two-year-old four-bedroom home overlooking a river and valley. It sells for $24,000, about half its worth.

Domitrovich tells of a copper miner who lost his job and could not make his mortgage payments. He abandoned his house and fled the area. Farmer's Home took over and asked $2,500. An outsider, hot for a bargain and not even seeing the house, bought it by sending a check in the mail to the broker.

ANOTHER OBSERVER is Bruce Lange. He is 32, a tall, muscular man who is a job counselor with the Upper Peninsula Displaced Workers Assistance Project. White Pine, Lange says, is "an unemployment disaster area." In the past six months, he has counseled between 225 and 250 people. He has found jobs for only 25. A shipyard in Massachusetts took one worker, a gold mine in San Francisco another.

Lange's severest frustration is trying to help the experienced workers — the ones who have been in the copper country for 20 years, had earned good wages at between $10 and $15 an hour in highly mechanized mines, and then were laid off. They were too young for a pensioned retirement and too old to be retrained for new work. No employer wants them elsewhere and nothing is to be found here. "They are in desperation," says Lange. "Two out of ten have not checked into welfare assistance out of pride."

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO, the twin lures of jobs and a scenic environment drew a diversity of people to the region that was originally settled by Algonquin tribes. Irish, German, and Cornish laborers came first, followed by Finns, Norwegians and Swedes. The legacy of the 19th-century immigrants has been passed down to the current generations. In Michigan and the rest of the Midwest, workers from the Upper Peninsula are known for their loyalty and integrity.

One of these is Bernice Houtari, a Finnish-American who is in her second term as the county clerk and register of deeds. She also fears that White Pine may be a ghost town in a few years. What she sees today is an area reeling in economic and emotional depression. "A social breakdown is occurring," she says. Alcoholism is already high enough, due to the long severe winters. Higher rates of the other usual blights — child abuse, wife-beating — are now being reported. Houtari tells of seeing "people who have worked all their lives and their savings are depleted. They can't relocate. Their pride is hurting. They are used to working. They don't want to be idle. I've reached the point that I feel guilty going to work in the morning."

THE SOCIAL DESPONDENCY in Michigan's Upper Peninsula is the result of complex political and economic decisions made outside the region. The nation's trade policies neglect protection for this industry from foreign competition. Michigan's Sen. Carl Levin wonders why "we have a President who willingly negotiates with foreign governments on textiles and motorcycles but won't when it comes to protecting industries like copper."

A few White Pine residents have dreams that the area can be transformed into winter and summer resorts. Everything is here, they say, for recreation. But unless help comes soon, the only tourist attraction will be ghost towns.

Study: quitting smoking can cut risk of family heart disease

LOS ANGELES (AP) — People with a family history of heart disease often believe they can't do anything to avoid heart attacks, but a new study says quitting smoking will cut their risk threefold.

"The general bias in most people's minds and most doctors' minds is that once you have a family history of heart disease, there's not much you can do about it," said Dr. Paul Hopkins, the study's principal author.

"What this (study) points out is that those with a high risk of heart disease because of their family background are the ones who would be most likely to benefit by stopping smoking," he said.

Earlier studies have shown that smoking roughly doubles a person's risk of heart attack and that a family history of heart disease can increase the risk of heart attack by up to seven times. This study is apparently the first to study the relationship of smoking to family history.

Hopkins' study found that people under age 50 who had a blood relative die of a heart attack increase their own already high risk of heart attack by three to five times if they smoke.

The study also found that smoking may be the most important reason why heart disease occurs more often in

Today's Puzzle

Puzzle answers are on Page 12.

Driver kills seven, charged with DUI

WASHINGTON (AP) — A mother and her three small children were among seven people killed when a car careened onto a sidewalk near a crowded bus stop, hurling some victims into the air and pinning others against a brick wall.

Three other people, including the driver of the car, were hospitalized following the Saturday night crash about a dozen blocks from the U.S. Capitol building, police said.

"It was a bloody massacre," according to police Capt. James Thorne, who said the victims were "bulldozed" into the wall. "I've been 21 years on this job and I've never seen anything like it."

The driver of the car, Robert Williams, 41, of Washington, was charged with vehicular homicide, driving while intoxicated and reckless driving. He was listed in serious condition at a local hospital Sunday.

Eyewitnesses and police said the early evening accident occurred when a car, traveling at between 75 mph and 85 mph down the wrong side of the street, struck the median strip and was propelled airborne.

As the car flipped over, it slammed into the narrow sidewalk in front of the Washington Navy Yard.

Missing checks worth $3 million found in taxicab

CHICAGO (AP) — Missing state paychecks worth $3 million were found in a taxicab a little more than a day after they disappeared, police said Sunday.

The 2,500 checks were found Saturday night in the trunk of a parked taxi and police were looking for the cab's driver, a 54-year-old South Side man, for questioning in connection with the disappearance.

"He might not be charged if he comes up with the right answers," said police Detective Leo Tamdyk, who added that it might have been just an oversight on the driver's part.

The checks were en route Friday from Springfield to Meigs Field on Chicago's lakefront, but the Britt Airways plane was diverted to Midway Airport because President Reagan's party was using tiny Meigs field. Reagan spoke to a Veterans of Foreign Wars convention here Friday.

So checks were sent with passengers and other cargo from Midway to Meigs by cab - but they never arrived.

A passenger in the cab with the checks remembered the taxi number and police found the parked vehicle with the checks in the trunk.

Bill could deter international study

By Susan Sarkauskas
Staff Writer

An immigration reform bill pending in Congress would probably deter international students from studying in the United States, Aris Kotsioris, president of the SIU-C International Student Council, said.

The bill, known popularly as the Simpson-Mazzoli Act after its sponsors, Senator Alan Simpson and Representative Romano Mazzoli, is designed to curb the flow of illegal aliens into the United States. The bill provides for fines from $1,000 to $3,000 and possible imprisonment for employers who hire illegal aliens. The bill reforms the 1952 Immigration and Nationality Act.

The bill also contains provisions establishing stricter visa regulations for international students. Under the proposed law, students would have to return to their home country after completing their degree for a period of two years before they could petition for permanent resident alien status.

Kotsioris said this is unfair to international students because the bill would allow illegal aliens that have been in the United States continuously before Jan. 1, 1982, to be granted permanent resident alien status. "We are not here to get a U.S. status. We are not illegals, we're legal. So we cannot be considered for citizenship or residency," he remarked.

According to Kotsioris, students now have six months upon completion of their degree to remain in the United States. Many do so to obtain practical experience in the field they studied. Kotsioris said that less than 5 percent of the approximately 360,000 international students in the United States remain to work, and of that 5 percent, most are professors or teaching assistants at universities working in fields such as mathematics or nuclear physics, fields in which Americans either don't possess the requisite skills or desire.

"Since we are paying here in America, we do contribute to the American economy, we do contribute to American society," Kotsioris stated. "So that rule, in that sense, was unfair to international students. You have invested to learn, and they don't allow you to get the experience," he said in reference to the proposed legislation.

The bill would probably deter international students from studying in the United States, Kotsioris said. Many instead would choose a country where they could be sure they could receive post-graduation training or experience.

A decrease in the number of international students, visiting professors, their dependents, and friends could adversely affect the economy of SIU-C and Carbondale. Each international student is required to prove he or she has $10,000 in a bank or a sponsor with such before he can study in the United States, Kotsioris said. This money is spent on tuition and fees, housing, and other living expenses.

There are about 2,500 international students at SIU-C, some of which would be affected more severely than others. Kotsioris said that students in managerial or administrative programs would not be hurt by the restrictions as much as students that require practical training in their field, including the approximately 300 international students in engineering programs.

Kotsioris said he didn't think the bill was intended or geared towards international students specifically, but that the provision regarding their visas is probably a result of a general insensitivity to foreigners in general by American society.

The National Association for Foreign Student Affairs has been lobbying against the bill in Washington, D.C. The bill was defeated this summer by the Democratic members of the House, according to Kotsioris, but he expects the bill to be reintroduced, as it has been approved by the Senate.

Officials still investigating cause of crash of Illinois-bound plane

LITTLE AMERICA, Wyo. (AP) — Federal aviation officials spent Sunday probing the cause of a mid-air plane explosion that left four people dead and scattered wreckage from the Illinois-bound aircraft for three miles.

The investigators flew over the crash site in a helicopter, taking aerial photographs and locating the scattered remnants of Saturday's explosion.

"They might have to patch the plane back together" to determine the cause, said Sweetwater County Sheriff's Lt. Ron Kudar.

A mechanical failure or lightning from thunderstorms in the area might have been the cause, but foul play had not been ruled out, he said.

Wreckage from the twin-engine plane landed a half mile north of Interstate 80, the main east-west artery through southern Wyoming.

Sweetwater County Coroner Mike Vase said Sunday the wings separated from the fuselage, which burned on impact. All four people on board were killed, he said.

The bodies, still intact in the fuselage, were burned beyond recognition and were identified at the State Crime Lab in Cheyenne.

Vase said the plane was owned and piloted by Dr. James P. DeMetry, 62, of Oroville, Calif. Also aboard the plane were DeMetry's son, Peter, 21, his daughter, Chara, 23, and a family friend, Tyler Foley, 21.

Officials originally thought there might have been a fifth person aboard, but Vase said he confirmed with the family that the fifth person decided not to make the trip.

The coroner said he was not sure of the reason for the flight, but thought the doctor might have been taking his children back to school in the Midwest. Kudar said college books were found in the baggage on board, but he also thought the DeMetrys might have been planning to visit relatives in Illinois.

Marion steam locomotive one of a kind

By Jim Ludeman
Staff Writer

If you happen to see an operating steam locomotive in the Marion area, you're not in a time warp.

The locomotive is owned by the Crab Orchard and Egyptian Railroad Company, a short-line railroad based in Marion.

The COERR owns two steam locomotives, but uses just one of them, to haul freight. This makes the COERR the only railroad on the North American continent to use a steam locomotive to haul freight, according to Chuck Roehm Jr., master mechanic and part

'Every time we make a run, we always have a few people showing up.'

ROEHM SAID the COERR uses the locomotive to haul freight from local industries to an area where it can be picked up by the Missouri-Pacific Railroad Company and transported across the nation.

"We run from Marion to Ordill, and then as far east as the grain elevator at Creal Springs. Altogether, we run around eight and a half miles," he said.

The COERR runs its steam locomotive two or three times a week, depending on whether or not local industries need anything delivered or the Missouri-Pacific needs to drop anything off, Roehm said.

"Every time we make a run, we always have a few people showing up, wanting to take pictures or ask questions,"

Roehm said.

IT'S A SMALL wonder that more people don't show up to take pictures and ask questions about the gigantic steam locomotive.

The locomotive and tender car together are 70 to 75 feet long, Roehm said. The locomotive is 15 feet high, and the boiler on the locomotive holds 1,500 gallons of water.

The tender holds eight tons of coal and 7,000 gallons of water. Together, the tender car and locomotive weigh 185 tons, Roehm said.

The engine has 4,000 horsepower, is capable of going 65 miles per hour, and the drive wheels are 57 inches in diameter. The engine burns about two-thirds of a ton of coal on a run, Roehm said.

"IT TAKES about two hours to fire it up and get it running," Roehm said. "If we were running every day, it would be so hot, it wouldn't take any time at all to fire up."

This particular engine, No. 17, was purchased from a private party in New London, Connecticut. The engine was originally built in Kingston, Ontario, in 1940, Roehm said.

Aide says Reagan's staff is confident

CENTRALIA (AP) — Ronald Reagan's advisers are confident he will be re-elected in November, but not so confident they can afford to be cocky, Press Secretary James Brady says.

"You can't let your guard down for a minute, or they'll pick your pocket," the Reagan aide said Saturday at an impromptu evening news conference in his hometown.

Brady, still recovering from wounds received in a 1981 assassination attempt on the president, returned home on his way back to Washington from the Republican National Convention in Dallas, where he received an ovation during one appearance.

"We never called it the convention; we called it the coronation," he said, laughing. "But that's not to say that anybody was cocky."

Nonetheless, Brady said he was confident Reagan would be re-elected.

"The only thing that might set him back a step or two is if he proclaims that he is a transvestite and showed up in a purple jumpsuit," he joked.

Brady has had only a limited work schedule since he received serious head wounds in the March 30, 1981 attempt on Reagan's life. Aide Larry Speakes has assumed the active role of press secretary while Brady continues to undergo therapy.

"I go in twice a day," he said. "They put me on the rack and do whatever it is the Marquis de Sade tells them to do."

Brady's progress toward recovery has been steady, and he said he looks forward to working on the campaign — and beyond.

"That remains to be seen — whatever they decide, and whatever the bench strength appears to be," he said.

He also said Reagan could have used his advice before joking recently about bombing the Soviet Union during a microphone check before a news conference.

"That's vintage Reagan sense of humor," Brady said. "It's something you wish you hadn't done after it's over, because it gives people a place to grab hold of you."

The homecoming was only Brady's second since he became Reagan's press secretary. He was honored with a parade and formal ceremonies last October, but this trip was a more private affair.

"You know how people say you can never go back home?" he asked his daughter, Missy, before talking to reporters. "We'll, they're wrong. I'm home, now."

STEAM: One of a kind

The COERR owns another, smaller steam locomotive that it used in its tourist business. The COERR purchased this one from Central Illinois Public Services. CIPS had used it at one of their power plants, Roehm said.

The COERR started in 1973 as a tourist business, with the intention of ultimately running a tourist business and hauling freight.

The COERR started hauling freight in 1977, the same year it stopped running a tourist attraction.

"Our depot burned in 1977, and we weren't making any money at the tourist business, so we decided to go with the freight. We won't start up the tourist business again," Roehm said.

The COERR uses coal because it is cheaper to run and all the employees have the experience and knowledge required, Roehm said.

"Everything is cheaper. The initial purchase price (of the engines and equipment), the fuel, the maintenance, all are lower," he said.

CHUCK ROEHM SR., also employed by the COERR, said the locomotives use about 50 percent to 55 percent of the potential energy in coal.

"With the proper design, that could be in the 80 to 85 percent range. It's efficient because it's cheap, and available. Coal is $30 to $35 a ton, diesel fuel is $1 a gallon. We're right in the middle of coal country, too," Roehm Sr. said.

"No one complains about the smoke. It's spread out over a pretty big area. Someone burning garbage in a can is putting more smoke in that area than this locomotive. People are used to it," he said.

COERR employees do everything from office work to track maintenance.

Most of the employees have been with the railroad since it started in 1973.

"We all knew each other before we started this. There's four of us, and we're all part owners of the line," he said.

Hot weather spurs some workers on WASHINGTON (AP) - Heat like that which baked the Republican conventioners in Dallas makes many Americans miserable, but in the Sun Belt they still tough it out and go to work, a study indicates.

Folks living in cities where hot weather is common don't seem deterred from their jobs by the heat, the study said, but extreme hot weather does keep Northerners at home.

Robert E. Davis and Roger S. Ulrich of the University of Delaware collected the data for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration in an effort to detail weather's effect on people. They studied the work records of 60,000 federal employees across the nation for five years.

The researchers said they were surprised to learn that in Sun Belt cities hot weather actually seems to encourage people to go to work.

For example, they cited one five-day period in Phoenix, Ariz., when the temperature topped 110 degrees Fahrenheit every day, and attendance at work was six percent above normal. The arrival of cooler weather, when more outdoor activities could be enjoyed, correlates with an increase in absenteeism.

Northerners, less accustomed to the heat and less likely to have air conditioning, don't react as well to the heat.

THE SURVIVAL GAME HAS ARRIVED

You're in a patch of heavy woods, bad terrain, and headed for the flag station. Your palms are sweating as you move ten steps and wait, listening, watching for movement. Suddenly you glimpse the red flags hung on a tree fifty yards away. Should you charge the station and take your chances on being ambushed? Or crawl in and lose valuable time? You hear the snap of a twig behind you. There's a shot and a paint-filled pellet bursts on a tree six inches from your face. You spin, fall into prone and spot him running for cover. You squeeze off a shot from your Nelspot 007 pistol and see the paint pellet splatter the center of his back. He's out. He's eliminated. You roll and hit your feet running, your heart in your throat. You grab the red flag in full stride, and as you run for home base you realize you've made it. You've won.

Carter hammers out dwellings for poor

NEW YORK (AP) — With hammer and crowbar, former President Carter and a crew of co-workers are coming to town to renovate a Manhattan slum building as part of a wide-scale Christian program to provide decent housing for the poor.

Using what's called the "economics of Jesus," without profit or interest charges, the operation turns out simple, new or refurbished dwellings for families who otherwise couldn't afford it.

"It's not just theory, it works," says Millard Fuller of Americus, Ga., executive director of Habitat for Humanity, a non-profit, inter-Christian organization carrying on projects in many countries to house the homeless.

This Sunday, a busload of 39 volunteer laborers from Georgia, also including Carter's wife, Rosalynn, were due here to spend the next week fixing up a dilapidated, six-story building on Manhattan's shabby lower east side.

Carter is a good carpenter, says Fuller, noting that Carter recently handmade and auctioned some furniture to finance his library in Atlanta. "He knows how to use a saw, plane and level."

"But he's just a member of the crew, no different than the rest. As a former president, he doesn't have to go out and work in a dirty, nasty, dusty old building. But he believes in doing it because he's a Christian."

"He believes it's the kind of thing Christian people ought to be doing. Jimmy Carter is a guy that doesn't like to separate himself from poor people. He likes to get right down with them. He's that kind of a person."

The organization, only eight years old, already has completed about 1,000 family units in America and elsewhere, and has 51 new projects going on in this country and 11 abroad for 3,000 more units.

The Manhattan project is at 742-44 East Sixth street, between Avenues C and D. The building is a gutted shell, much of the old interior having been torn out on previous work sessions. Now it will get flooring, doors, windows, roof and other reconstruction.

Taylor Eskew, a New York architect and Quaker, is serving as the volunteer project director. "It's going to make a lovely place," she says.

The Georgia-based organization is buying the abandoned building from the city at a price being negotiated, the title to be turned over cooperatively to the 15 or 20 families provided apartments, putting the property on tax rolls.

"What we seek to do is to build good, simple places to live for people who can't bear the conventional load of profit and interest, who are too poor to fit into the system," Fuller says.

Decals one way to avoid parking hassles

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

It would seem that many people on campus think of the SIU-C Parking Division as being little more than ticket-crazed fascist out to make life as complicated as possible for the car-driving and bike-riding populace of the school.

Merilyn Hogan, Campus Parking Manager, tends to disagree with this misconception.

"People think we're out there to just give them tickets," Hogan laments, "but really what we're here for is just to regulate the parking of the university and make it work as smoothly as possible."

Hogan says that people could avoid hassles and do their blood pressures a service if they'd only follow the parking regulations of the university, such as applying the appropriate decals to their rear bumpers or bike frames and parking their vehicles in the proper areas — and she insists that students need't park in the wrong lots as there are always spaces available.

Ten in the morning is probably the peak traffic period of the day, but I could walk around campus and still find numerous empty spaces at that time," Hogan says. She admits that convenient spaces are indeed not always available, but commuters, she says, must keep in mind that most centralized lots on campus are reserved for faculty and students with early-morning schedules will invariably get the prime student spaces. A total of 9,126 auto parking spaces on the SIU-C campus, however, makes it unlikely that motorists will be unable to find their own spot every day.

Hogan says that every major university has some problems finding space for its driving students, but SIU-C's situation is better than most.

"Some universities are right in the core of a major city and have nowhere to expand their parking facilities, but we have plenty of room," she says. "Their students might have to take a bus from their parking places to the campus because of the great distance, but here anybody can get a space within three blocks of the main campus."

Bicyclist too, Hogan notes, should have little worry of being ticketed so long as they secure their bikes to the proper racks on campus and follow all other SIU-C traffic rules.

Hogan estimates that the SIU-C security force issues 500 tickets a week during the school year, although more than 2000 were issued last week, mostly because many people assumed the rules would be lax during the first week of classes, she says. This sort of statistic, she claims, could be reduced if people would only realize their responsibilities as SIU-C commuters.

"Every year some people think they'll get away with not following the traffic and parking rules," she said, "and every year they get ticketed."

Every motorist on campus must have an appropriate decal beginning this week in order to park on a campus lot, Hogan says, meaning blue decals for full-time faculty members, red for students, and yellow for visitors. They can be purchased at the Parking Division at Washington Square. Bicyclists also are required to have decals.

Wilder's 'The Woman in Red' lacks zany humor, subtle wit

By Belinda Edmondson
Staff Writer

Sometimes one wonders why Gene Wilder insists on acting in comedies; he has no zany humor to split one's side over, no subtle wit to chuckle knowingly at — in fact, he has nothing funny about him at all, unless of course one's taste runs to comedies of the "eternally bewildered schmuck" variety. Still Wilder persists, this time concentrating his dubious talents directing and starring in his newest film, "The Woman In Red."

Based on the French screenplay "Un Elephant ca Trompe Enormement," "The Woman In Red" is about timid, married Theodore Pierce (Gene Wilder), who acts out his mid-life crisis fantasy by pursuing a beautiful model (Kelly LeBrock), and getting into all sorts of strange situations.

These situations are supposed to be a real scream; the beautiful model — Charlotte — always goes horseback riding, so Wilder goes riding too. Of course he can't ride, so he's continually falling off his horse — ho! ho! Charlotte criticizes his suit as too old, so he gets a "mod" look, and shocks everyone at his office — how killing! The movie practically grovels in an effort to make us laugh.

The rest of the movie is largely unnecessary. Gilda Radner plays her usual wacky role as Pierce's dowdy colleague who mistakenly thinks he is pursuing her, while Charles Grodin and Joe Bologna play Pierce's adulterous buddies. What is really jarring about "The Woman In Red" is that it actually tries to be serious at times; when Pierce's philandering friend's wife finds out about his affairs, she moves out, and the movie quickly turns somber as the abandoned husband goes berserk. What are we supposed to do — cry?

If all this weren't enough, there are lots of other things to irritate you in the movie. The score, written by Stevie Wonder, sounds very sophisticated and sexy, which is why it is totally unsuited for a Gene Wilder movie. Another irritating thing is the aggravating expression Wilder has on his face throughout the movie, like that of a waterlogged goldfish.

In addition, the ad for "The Woman In Red" is totally misleading. It implies that Pierce's wife is "packing a gun" because of his affair, which is not true; she's had it all the time, and — unfortunately for the viewer — never uses it. It also says that Pierce's friends "are going nuts trying to cover for him," which is an exaggeration; they actually encourage him to further flights of foolishness. Lastly, it says Theodore Pierce is "about to get caught on the 6 o'clock news with his pants down," which is a lie; he's wearing a robe on the 6 o'clock news. In fact, nowhere in the movie does he have his pants down except in the grotesque love scene with LeBrock, where you heartily wish they were back on.

Autopsy conducted on author Capote

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Truman Capote, who died just short of his 60th birthday, created a new literary genre of the "non-fiction novel" with his chilling "In Cold Blood," but his hunger for celebrity and flamboyant, gossip lifestyle sometimes overshadowed his achievements, friends and critics said.

Capote, who had fought against a long addiction to alcohol and drugs, died in his sleep Saturday at the home of Joanne Carson, divorced wife of "Tonight Show" host Johnny Carson.

The Los Angeles County coroner's office conducted an autopsy Sunday, but results were not available. Police said there was no evidence of foul play.

The "Survival" game uses a CO2-powered pistol that shoots latex paint pellets.

SURVIVAL: Combat for civilians

Taking cover in a dry creek bed, Dave Simmons waits for the enemy.

The "bullets" used in "Survival" are tiny pellets of latex paint that explode upon impact. Although a shot at close range might sting a bit, the pellets are harmless. Emmert said the anxiety "Survival" beginners experience is fear over being shot and possibly hurt. Woodland Sports Inc.'s information brochure warns players to wear goggles at all times. Emmert said that if this rule is obeyed there will be no injuries from the paint pellets.

For 13 players are supplied with the necessary equipment: protective eye goggles, CO2 powered pistol, three tubes of paint pellets and armbands.

The 11 players who came to Saturday's game were divided into groups of five and six. The red team, the Rat Patrol, had the odds in its favor. Although outnumbered, each player was a "Survival" veteran, while the blue team, Gumby's Gorillas, consisted of two veterans and four raw recruits.

The blue leader, Gumby, accurately predicted that the Rat Patrol would strike hard, without warning. Gumby fanned his forces into a semi-circle around the blue flag, hoping to entice the zealous attackers into a frontal assault.

After 30 minutes it became apparent that a Rat Patrol fire team had infiltrated blue's defenses. Three Gorillas occupied a dry gully just to the right of their flag, knowing the enemy lay in the tall grass.

Then, as if on cue, Patrol members jumped out of the grass and Gorillas out of the gully. After fierce fighting, five had been killed. For the next 45 minutes casualties filtered back to home base. With only 30 minutes remaining, Gumby's Gorillas had been reduced to only one man. All seemed lost.

The Rat Patrol and the judges thought that the red team had won. But, then, out of the woods came the lone Gorilla — with a smile on his face. In a bold stroke he had swiped the enemy's flag and, with the help of a misfired shot by an enemy player, managed to work his way back to the blue flag. A stunning victory had been won by Gumby's beleaguered Gorillas.

With some time left in the two-hour allotment, the two groups played a quick game of "shoot out," in which the two opposing sides simply fire at one another without having to protect a flag. The Rat Patrol won this contest, eliminating all Gorillas and losing no one in the process.

Man charged with murder after fire kills 3-year-old

CHICAGO (AP) — An 18-year-old Chicago man was charged with murder Sunday in the death of a 3-year-old girl killed in an intentionally set fire, police said.

The victim, Alejandra Diaz, was pronounced dead early Saturday at St. Anne's Hospital after being carried from the burning West Side house by a firefighter.

Nester Rosario was arrested early Sunday and was held at a police station lockup pending a bond hearing Monday, said police Detective Joseph McMahon.

When firefighters arrived at the Diaz home, the girl's mother was standing in front of the two-story, frame house screaming that her "baby" was still in the building, said firemen Joseph Miranda, who ran into the house and pulled the girl from the bed.

No one else was injured in the fire.

Harriers look for a strong year

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

With two weeks of practice under their belts, Coach Don DeNoon said the Saluki women's cross country team is making steady progress.

"I'm pretty happy at this stage, not with every athlete, but with the team as a whole," said DeNoon, whose team opens the season Sept. 8 in a triangular meet at Murray State. "It appears we're going to be stronger than we were in the past."

DeNoon said his No. 1 runner is sophomore Lisa Hicks.

"Lisa has paid the price in training and is very strong right now," he said.

DeNoon said that the other runners would have to pass her to be the top runner.

"She is certainly the leader," he said.

DeNoon said the No. 2, 3 and 4 runners are senior Sally Zack, junior Kathryn Doelling, and sophomore Bonnie Helmick.

"We know Sally is extremely competitive," he said. "Her competitive abilities are going to take her a long way through the season. Lisa is stronger conditioning wise, Sally is stronger competitive wise."

DeNoon said junior Lisa Reimund would be the No. 5 runner if she was healthy. Reimund has resumed training after being sidelined with a virus. The fifth spot is up for grabs between seniors Odette James and Lori Ann Bertrum, junior Christine Hangren, and freshman Patty Kelly.

"I think right now Patty Kelly is looking good among the freshmen," DeNoon said. "In the workouts she's shown a little more leg speed than the other freshmen and her endurance background from high school is a little bit higher. That should pay off for her in the long run."

The other freshmen on the team are Santha Gore, Darla Patterson, walk-on Amy Marker, and Dawn Nease, who is sidelined indefinitely with a sore Achilles tendon.

DeNoon said he hasn't made a decision if Patterson, his top track recruit, is going to run cross country. Patterson is working out with the team in order to improve her endurance.

WHAT EVERY STUDENT SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE DIFFERENCES BETWEEN LEASING A TELEPHONE AND LEASING A CHICKEN.

Yes, there are differences. And we think you should know what they are. Ask yourself these questions.

WHEN YOU LEASE A CHICKEN, DO YOU GET THREE MONTHS FREE DURING THE SUMMER?

Probably not. But when you lease your telephone from AT&T this fall, you won't pay any lease charges next summer. You can use your phone at home, and bring it back to school in the fall.

DO LEASED CHICKENS COME IN A SELECTION OF COLORS AND STYLES?

No. Chickens don't come in many colors. But the AT&T telephone you lease this fall comes in a variety of colors and three popular styles.

ARE LEASED CHICKENS REPAIRED FREE?

Don't kid yourself. Repairing a chicken is a delicate process that requires the work of expensive professionals. However, in the off chance your

AT&T leased telephone needs repairs, we'll fix it absolutely free when you visit any of our AT&T Phone Centers.

ARE LEASED CHICKENS SHIPPED DIRECTLY TO YOU?

Ship a chicken? Don't be silly. However, your AT&T leased telephone will be shipped directly to you after one call to 1-800-555-8111, or you can pick up your phone at any of our AT&T Phone Centers.

ONE FINAL QUESTION: DOES IT COST THE SAME TO LEASE A CHICKEN AS TO LEASE A TELEPHONE THIS FALL?

Hardly. While we have no hard data on the exact cost of leasing a chicken, we can tell you with some certainty that the cost of leasing a telephone this fall is far less than you might think.

The decision to lease a chicken or a telephone, of course, rests with you. But should you opt for the telephone, remember: you get three months free next summer, and you can take the phone home with you. There's a choice of colors and styles, free repair, and we'll ship you the phone or you can pick it up at any of our AT&T Phone Centers.

It doesn't cost much either. And that's something to crow about.

Runnerup Nebraska received five first-place votes and 922 points while two first-place ballots and 890 points went to Pitt. Clemson received the second highest number of first-place votes — 11 — but its 817 points were only good for fourth place, one ahead of UCLA, which received five first-place votes and 816 points.

Sixth-place Texas, which finished the 1983 campaign No. 5 and opens its 1984 season against Auburn on Sept. 15, received 734 points, followed by Ohio State with 661. Neither the Longhorns nor the Buckeyes got a first-place vote.

Soccer backers search for talent

By Stan Goff
Staff Writer

Bill Miksch, a special advisor for the SIU-C soccer club, hopes the soccer craze that is spreading throughout the country will catch on at SIU-C.

Miksch's main goal is to field a team of 15 to 20 players interested in soccer who are willing to practice and play at the intercollegiate level. He says the talent at SIU-C is "as good as anybody's," but a lack of interest has been holding back the club's progress.

"We're trying hard to push soccer on the campus, and to gain some recognition for the club," Miksch said. "We need players who are willing to commit themselves to the club, so that the organization can become a strong one."

The club will be meeting at 5:30 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 30 at McAndrew Stadium.

Everyone is welcome. Miksch and John Szulc, soccer club president last fall, hope that interest in this year's club will be high.

Bill Mehrtens of Carbondale

Soccer Inc., a former SIU-C soccer club member, is expected to coach the team. Mehrtens is involved with soccer at the Carbondale Park District.

workouts. The quartet of Fabray Collins, Ashley Sledge, Frank Carr and Dan Wetzel looked very good in Saturday's workout.

"Our top linebackers are really swarming to the football," Dorr said. "Their playing assignment football, and that's what we need."

Dorr was concerned with four minor injuries that were suffered during the scrimmage.

Defensive lineman Kevin Sanderlin, cornerback Greg Page, linebacker Alonzo Bailey and Phibbs were all nursing a variety of aches and pains.

"I'm a little bit worried because all of those players are on the depth chart," Dorr said.

Defensive tackle Ken Foster, suffering from a shoulder injury, and linebacker Tony Wrenn, nursing a bruised heel, also missed the scrimmage. Dorr said he expects both players to be ready for the matchup with Tulsa.

Dorr was not ready to predict how his club would fare against Tulsa this Saturday. He said it is hard to make a firm analysis of the Salukis' potential until he sees the team perform in a game situation.

"It's hard for me to say how good this team is," Dorr said. "We need to play somebody. Unfortunately, we may play one of the best teams in the nation."

Bears claw Bills in pre season win

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Quarterback Jim McMahon led a first-half assault with two touchdown runs and a 39-yard scoring pass to Dennis McKinnon Sunday, sparking the Chicago Bears to a 38-7 victory over the Buffalo Bills in the final game of the National Football League exhibition season.

The Bears, winning for the first time in four pre-season games, scored on each of their first five possessions, including a 29-yard interception return for a touchdown by cornerback Mike Richardson midway through the second quarter.

That pushed Chicago's lead to 31-7 at halftime, and the Bears coasted with reserves playing much of the second half in the nationally televised game from the Hoosier Dome.

Richardson's interception for a touchdown, the first of his two pickoffs of Buffalo quarterback Joe Ferguson's passes, came just 15 seconds after McMahon sneaked in from the 1 for his second touchdown. McMahon's first touchdown came on a 4-yard run early in the first quarter.

The Bears, holding the Bills without a first down on the first two series of plays, quickly struck again midway through the opening quarter. A 20-yard pass from McMahon to Jay Saldi and a 5-yard run by Walter Payton gave the Bears the ball at the Bills' 39. McMahon then lofted the touchdown pass to a wide-open McKinnon, who raced in untouched from the 15-yard line.

Buffalo, also ending its pre-season play at 1-3, broke the ice late in the first quarter, moving to the Bears' 47 before Ferguson hit Byron Franklin with a long scoring pass.

McMahon, who completed six of 10 passes for 127 yards, retired to the sidelines in favor of backup Bob Avellini starting the third quarter.

Gumby Fenley, senior in electronic technology, looks and listens for the enemy while guarding his team's flag.

Wes Dillon, right, senior in geology, prepares for battle by camouflaging his face. The game is over for Dillon, above, as he plays dead after being shot in the face with a paint pellet.

'Survival'

War game provides escapist fun

Except for the usual sounds of the forest, there is nothing unusual, no movement — perfect stillness; then, from nowhere charge several camouflaged members of a fire team brandishing pistols. Suddenly all hell breaks loose. Shots are fired, people scramble for cover. Many won't make it.

This is no blood-stained battlefield in the hills of Nicaragua or El Salvador. This is Southern Illinois. And, of course, the bullets aren't real and people don't die.

This is "Survival," a sport rapidly growing in popularity, that gives civilians the opportunity to match wits and skills of small arms tactical combat.

Richard Emmert, who owns and operates a "Survival" franchise a few miles west of Lake of Egypt in Williamson County, says that people from all walks of life participate in the game, which has officially existed for about three years.

Everyone from lawyers to stock brokers to blue-collar workers has found it to be a fascinating and challenging game, Emmert said.

Emmert gained the franchise rights to "Survival" this spring and with the creation of Woodland Sports Inc., he has been in business for two months. His franchise rights extend from Centralia in the north to mid-Kentucky in the south, excluding the counties adjacent to East St. Louis.

"Survival" is a different form of recreation, "nothing more, nothing less," said the Vietnam veteran, Emmert said that those who have criticized what is in essence an elaborate version of "capture the flag" as being anti-social or promoting a war-like mentality are off the mark.

"It has as much to do with war as carnival bumper cars have to do with traffic accidents. The principle objection people have with the "Survival" game is the gun symbolism," Emmert explained.

The rules are simple. Players are divided into two teams — a red team and a blue team. Each side protects its own flag, which is always in plain view, from enemy capture. When the opposing team's flag is captured, it must be returned to the site of the victor's flag. If the player who captured the flag is not "shot," the game is over and that side wins. If that player is shot before returning to his own flag, the game continues. Each game has a two-hour time limit.

Each player is identified by red or blue armbands which must be worn at all times. Players are eliminated when they are hit by opposing "bullets." Once hit, players must put their weapons away and wave their armbands to show that they have been eliminated. The judges, of course, rule on any dispute and have the final say.

Beautiful SIU-C setting sways five recruits to volleyball team

By Martin Folan
Staff Writer

The beautiful campus, the friendliness of the people and the hominess of SIU-C persuaded five girls toward playing volleyball with the Salukis.

Tracy Juntunen, a middle or strong blocker, said, "I like the campus, and the people here are very friendly."

The hospitableness of Coach Debbie Hunter, assistant coach Sonya Locke and team members was also persuasive.

"I was welcomed by the team and even got postcards from them," said Joan Wallenberg, a weak side or middle blocker.

Other universities were considered, but were none compared to SIU-C or its volleyball team.

Sue Sinclair, setter, said she visited Wichita State and met the volleyball team, but they weren't nearly as cordial as the Salukis.

Hunter's seasonal and team goal is to place at least third in the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference, she said, and her players believe it's a reachable goal.

"That's definitely realistic," Wallenberg said.

Also, apparently realistic is a conference championship.

"I think we'll be No. 1," Juntunen quipped.

Number one may be possible, but not before hours of drills, team play and relearning volleyball techniques and skills.

"When we first came in, we had to learn everything over again," said Linda Walker, a defensive specialist. "Everything not corrected in high school had to be corrected here."

Four of the five newcomers played volleyball in high school and faced only minor adjustments in making the high school to college transition. But there's a difference for the fifth newcomer — Catalina Romero from Bogota, Colombia.

Romero said her coach, Daniel Margolis, referred her to SIU-C, and that was her decision.

Volleyball varies between countries, she said.

"Here it's university against university; back home we have state against state."

Styles of play also differ, she said, but no comparison between teams could be made.

The Salukis hope to compete in the national finals, Walker said.

"We don't know what to expect from this season," she said,

"but we would like to make it to nationals before we leave."

Aside from team goals, individual goals have been set. One requirement set for each player is running two miles in 14 minutes or faster. Players will run once during the week and will be timed each week until the task is accomplished, Wallenberg said. Jill Broker, a defensive specialist, is the only player to cut 14 minutes, so far.

SIU's Lucero wins U.S. diving crown

Wendy Lucero, a member of the SIU-C women's diving team, captured first place in the one-meter competition at the recent U.S. Diving Championships at Santa Clara, Cal. The victory automatically gained Lucero a berth at the 1988 Olympic diving tryouts.

Lucero, who transferred to SIU-C from the University of Nebraska, outpointed Wendy Wyland, who captured a bronze medal in the 1984 Olympics, in the one-meter competition. Lucero also placed fourth in the three-meter competition.

Durham's homers beat Braves, 5-0

By Nick Geranios
Of the Associated Press

CHICAGO (AP) — Leon Durham says it's not that he has anything against Atlanta Braves pitcher Pascual Perez.

"But if I can continue to get home runs off him, I will," said the Chicago Cubs first baseman, who hit two homers off Perez in Sunday's 5-0 victory over the Braves.

Durham also hit two homers off Perez during a Chicago victory in May.

The two homers and four runs batted in Sunday broke Durham out of a 1-for-21 slump.

"I'm thankful that the slump is hopefully over with," said Durham, whose wife is two weeks overdue with the couple's first child. "This is a good pick-me-up."

Chicago starter Steve Trout, 12-5, scattered eight hits in his fifth complete game and second shutout of the season.

The 12 victories are a single-season high for Trout in his five-year major league career.

"My sinker was working pretty good and I was making good pitches with guys on base," said Trout, who had six strikeouts. "I'm not really keeping track of them (victories). We're winning and the pitchers are winning."

The Cubs are leading the National League East by 5 games over New York, which beat San Francisco 11-6, and Trout said playing for the team makes him more confident before he takes the mound.

Atlanta Manager Joe Torre said Perez, 11-6, who has given up 22 homers in 161 innings this year, pitched well except for the two home runs he allowed to Durham and the solo shot he yielded to Ron Cey.

"It's just his style to give up home runs," Torre said.

Durham, who had been hitless in his previous 12 at-bats, homered to center field in the fourth to make it 1-0.

In the sixth, Ryne Sandberg and Gary Matthews both singled with one out and Durham followed by belting his 19th home run of the season. One out after Durham's homer, Cey cracked his 22nd homer, knocking Perez out of the game.

Saluki units slump in final scrimmage

By Mike Frey
Staff Writer

Maybe it was because of the early hour, or maybe it was because the season-opening showdown against Tulsa was just a week away. But it is certain that the SIU-C football team was very tight at the start of its final fall scrimmage at McAndrew Stadium Saturday morning.

The scrimmage pitted the Salukis' first-team offensive and defensive units against their second-team players. The first few minutes of the contest were marked by the inability of either offense to move the football.

Neither team was able to gain a first down through the first seven offensive series, partly because the receivers on both teams dropped a flock of passes.

Head Coach Ray Dorr said he was unhappy with his team's performance early in the scrimmage, and was particularly disappointed with the play of the pass receivers.

"We were really tight at the start of the scrimmage," Dorr said. "I was really disappointed with the receivers. But the team really came on as the scrimmage progressed."

Quarterback Darren Dixon finally broke the offensive slump when he hit fullback Bruce Phibbs with a 17-yard pass that produced the initial first down of the game. Later in the same series, tailback Derrick Taylor broke loose for a 19-yard run to the opponent's two-yard line. Taylor then capped the drive with a two-yard touchdown run which produced the first of three touchdowns the starting unit would score in the 30-minute workout.

The second touchdown was set up when Dixon threw to tight end Mike O'Day for a 25-yard gain. Taylor then scampered 10 yards for his second touchdown run of the scrimmage.

O'Day closed out the scoring in the scrimmage by catching a 14-yard touchdown pass from Dixon.

Dorr said he liked the play of backfield mates Taylor and Phibbs during the scrimmage. He said it was crucial that the pair continues to perform well for the Salukis.

"We're real thin at running back," Dorr said. "Phibbs took the ball and ran well. I'm pleased with Derrick."

Dorr was also very happy with the play of his first-team defensive unit. Their were eight penalty flags thrown during the scrimmage, but only two of the penalties were against the defense.

"The defense cut down to two penalties, and that's progress," Dorr said. The defensive unit collected four penalties in the Salukis' first fall scrimmage the previous Saturday.

Dorr said the first-team linebackers have been impressive throughout fall

Auburn cops top spot in poll

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — It has been 27 years since Auburn University won its only national championship and fewer than eight months since the Tigers felt they deserved another one.

Despite an 11-1 record last season, Auburn had to settle for a third-place finish behind Miami (11-1) and Nebraska (12-1). The Tigers get their long-awaited shot at Miami on Monday night in the season-opening second annual Kickoff Classic and they go in as the nation's No. 1-ranked college football team.

In the preseason Associated Press poll, Auburn received 30 of 60 first-place votes and 1,057 of a possible 1,200 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters. Rounding out the Top Ten are Nebraska, Pitt, Clemson, UCLA, Texas, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Alabama and Miami.

"I'll tell you flat out that I'd rather be No. 1 in January than No. 1 in August without reservations," said Auburn Coach Pat Dye. "But I'd rather be No. 1 now and be good enough to stay there."
